1. Once a god-less, hard-ened peo-ple with our dark-ened hearts,
2. Once a-lone we were as stran-gers with no friends to care,
3. Once we had no hope, no fu-ture; bit-ter days were spent,
4. Where You lead me, I will fol-low, ev-er press-ing on.

all our sens-es dulled and help-less, pierced by pleas-ure's pois'n-ing darts.
could not car-ry, could not bu-ry all the weight of our de-spair.
fear-ing dang-ers, pain and judg-ment, nev-er were our hearts con-tent.
Your own peo-ple are my peo-ple; You are God, my on-ly God.

But the Source of heav-en's bright-ness, hell-ish pow'rs de-stroyed,
But a-dopt-ed as Your child-ren, now we have a home,
But the Bride-groom, our Re-deem-er came up-on the scene, Trust-ing, I will work Your har-vest; I have un-der-stood, gave us life to know Your good-ness and Your ev-er-last-ing joys.

You will car-ry us for-ev-er, we will nev-er be a-lone.
with His might-y strength and com-fort shel-ters us be-neath His wing.
You are caus-ing all to hap-pen for your glo-ry and my good.
